

SLEW THE ROBBERS DURING A FIGHT

CITIZENS AND BANDITS IN A PITCHED BATTLE.

Attempt to Rob a Bank at Meeker.
Colo. Results in the Death of Three of the Desperadoes—Coroner's Jury Says it Was Justifiable Homicide.

Denver, Col., Oct. 15.—News has been received from Meeker, in the northwestern part of the state, of an attempted bank robbery that occurred Tuesday. Meeker is ninety miles from a railroad or telegraph line, the nearest station being Rifle, on the Denver & Rio Grande. Tuesday afternoon three men entered the bank of Meeker, which is connected with the store-room of J. W. Huggs & Co., who own the bank. Two of the men held the store employees at bay, while the third went into the bank cashier's window, and firing one shot, ordered the cashier to throw up his hands. The order was not quickly obeyed, and the robber fired again, whereupon the cashier's hands went up. The manager of the store was then forced to open the bank door, and after gathering up all the money in sight the robbers marched the cashier and store employees into the street with hands uplifted. They then rushed out the back way with their booty.

Citizens, attracted by the shots, had pretty well surrounded the building by this time, and being armed, opened fire on the robbers, two of whom, Charles Jones and William Smith, were killed by the first volley. The third man, George Harris, was shot through the lungs, dying in two hours. He is fully identified. Four citizens were wounded: District Game Warden W. H. Clark, bullet in right breast, shot through right arm; C. A. Booth, clerk, scalp wound; W. P. Herrick, finger shot off.

It is believed one of the dead men is Thomas McCarthy, who robbed the banks at Telluride and Delta, Col. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

TRAIN ROBBERS IN UTAH.

Two Men Hold Up the Union Pacific Fast Mail Near Ogden.

Ogden, Utah, Oct. 15.—The Union Pacific fast mail due here at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning was held up by masked and heavily armed men a half-mile east of Uintah. No passengers were molested, the robbers confining their operations to the mail and express car. While the attention of the robbers was distracted the engineer ran away and escaped to Uintah, where he was followed by the express messenger, and Superintendent O'Neil was notified. Meanwhile the baggage and express cars were uncoupled by the robbers and sent ahead of the train a few hundred yards, and both cars were broken open. The robbers failed to open the safe in the express car. The railway officials say all the booty secured was a few small bags, the value of their contents being unknown. A special train in charge of Superintendent O'Neil may catch the robbers, as the latter cannot get out of the canyon except by the eastern route, and all station agents have been notified and are awaiting the appearance of the bandits. Posses are also in pursuit.

Illinois Statesman Indicted.

Gemeva, Ill., Oct. 15.—The Kane county grand jury has returned forty-four indictments, three against E. C. Hawley, of Dundee, a member of the last legislature, one for embezzlement in receiving deposits the day he made an assignment and two for fraud as township treasurer. Three indictments were returned last May on which he is under $1,000 bail and two or three suits are pending in connection with his trusteeship. The trustees neglected to require bonds of him, and hence these suits and indictments.

Masters, state superintendent of the Methodist Chinese work, has, at the Methodist mission house on Washington street, two Chinese students whom he holds in custody for Collector J. H. Wise. These students are Tieng Aeng and Sia Ting Bo, sons of the Rev. Sia Sek Ong, D. D., the presiding elder of the Foo Choo district and the most eminent native divine in China. The young men came to this port two days ago on the steamer Doric. Their papers were given to Collector Wise, but as there was some informality in them the students were not permitted to land.

WILD DEEDS OF BLOOD.

Columbus, Ga., Is the Scene of Horrifying Tragedies.

Columbus, Ga., Oct. 15.—Three men are dead and two wounded—one fatally—as the result of a sensational tragedy here. One of the dead is J. A. White, who was the cause of the whole trouble. White and his 19-year-old son murdered in cold blood two policemen and wounded two other men who were in the party attempting to arrest them. The murdered officers are Richard M. Adams and William Jackson.

White has been considered eccentric but not crazy. He became involved in a quarrel in a barroom and Adams and Mayfield served him with a summons to appear to a charge of disorderly conduct. This maddened White, who made threats against the officers. He went home, secured his Winchester and bought a supply of cartridges. He was joined by his son, who also was armed. They went to a barroom and going out from there encountered the officers. White at once shot Adams and Jackson. The news of the affair created intense excitement. Policemen Roberts went to White's house, knocked, was asked in, and as he stepped inside was fatally wounded by a ball from White's gun.

The entire police force, armed with Winchester and their party augmented by the presence of a large number of armed citizens, went to arrest the Whites. As they sprang in White fired, wounding Sergeant Pickett. At the same time White was shot. He attempted to break through, but half a dozen bullets were put through his body. Henry, the son, escaped to the Alabama side of the river. A posse with bloodhounds is on his trail.

Institute Workers at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Nearly 100 farmers from a dozen states and Canada are in Chicago to attend the second meeting of the International Association of Farmers' Institute Workers. Believing that an international association would broaden the scope of their labors, the promoters of the institutes met at Watertown, Wis., last March and formed a temporary organization. They are now meeting here to make the association a permanent one. President O. C. Gregg of Minnesota called the meeting to order. F. E. Dawley of New York, Casey Butterfield of Michigan and George McKerron of Wisconsin were appointed a committee to draft a constitution and submit a scheme for the permanent organization of the society.

Killed in a Train Wreck.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 15.—Through a misunderstanding of an order the north and south bound trains on the Florida Central and Peninsular railroad had a head-end collision at 3:05 o'clock Wednesday morning, two and a half miles below Swansea, about thirty miles from this city. The engineers and firemen jumped and escaped without injury. Baggage and Express Messenger W. D. Lines and Mail Agent L. A. Thomas were pinned in the wreck, which caught fire from the coal oil lamps. Flagman Ulmer was standing between the second-class and baggage cars, and he too is supposed to have been burned to death.

Indiana Synod Meets.

Franklin, Ind., Oct. 15.—The Indiana synod met Wednesday morning. The report of Treasurer D. W. Coffin of Indianapolis showed the receipts for the year to have been over $7,000. The home missions report was given much time, as there has been a great deal of objection to the continuance of a synodical superintendent. The committee recommended that the office be continued, and after argument this recommendation was carried by a vote of 83 to 15. The Rev. Frank H. Hayes of Muncie was elected to the place.

Y., Oct. 15.—At 2 o'clock this morning the directors of the Bank of Commerce, one of the leading financial institutions in this city, announced that owing to the heavy withdrawals the bank was compelled to suspend business and place their affairs in the hands of the banking department for examination. # CIRCUS MEN HONOR MAJOR M'KINLEY BRYAN IS TRAVELING IN MICHIGAN.

MAJOR M'KINLEY SEES THE PARADE.

Employees Present Him With a Large American Flag—Delegations Arrive From Three States—Union General Make Speeches in Indiana—General Republican News.

Canton, Ohio, Oct. 15.—A special train of eleven coaches arrived about noon Wednesday over the Pennsylvania lines bringing an enthusiastic party from McDonald, Pa., with greetings and congratulations for Maj. McKinley. The delegation was composed largely of railroad men, farmers and other citizens.

Barnum & Bailey's circus was in town today, and the parade was extended beyond the usual course, so as to pass the McKinley home, where it was reviewed by Maj. and Mrs. McKinley and a number of friends. In honor of the visit to McKinley's home the circus employees all wore the national colors, and the tent was elaborately decorated. The press box was reserved for Mrs. McKinley and a company of friends. The employees of the circus presented Maj. McKinley a large and handsome American flag through a committee, who called at the house. Maj. McKinley accepted the flag with an appropriate address.

Seven carloads of employees of the Cleveland City Street railway company came in the afternoon to pay their respects to Maj. McKinley. They were all uniformed and were particularly well drilled. They were introduced by Thomas Martin, and Mr. McKinley responded.

The Early Settlers' association of Cuyahoga county came to Canton to greet Maj. McKinley, his wife and mother. The party occupied a special train of six coaches, which arrived soon after 1 o'clock. Introductory addresses were made by H. M. Addison, the veteran journalist of Cleveland, and by the Rev. Mr. Cooley, chaplain of the Early Settlers' association. Maj. McKinley made a short address.

The announcements of visiting delegations continue to pour in. The list for Saturday is now twenty-three, and new ones are coming by mail and by telegraph. The indications now are that last Saturday will be entirely eclipsed. Among the new announcements of that day are the students of all the colleges of Columbus, and several large parties from Louisville and central Kentucky. One of the notable visits of next week will be a party starting from southwest Kansas.

Officials Will Not Talk.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The closest inquiry fails to disclose any change in the policy of the state department toward the Turkish question, and in particular respecting the movements of the little dispatch boat Bancroft. Naval officers one and all ridicule the idea that the little Bancroft will undertake to force the passage of the Dardanelles, for this would be absolutely impossible single-handed, and even if she succeeded she would be helpless when she arrived off Constantinople.

Rear Admiral Gherardi Chosen.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 15.—The commandery in chief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States held its annual meeting Wednesday. Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, U. S. N., was elected commander-in-chief to succeed the late General John Gibbons. Brigadier General John F. Brooke, U. S. A., was elected junior vice commander in place of General Conner.

Rockford, Ill., Bank Falls.

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 15.—The Second national bank, the oldest financial institution of the city, did not open its doors this morning, having gone into voluntary liquidation. The result is due to a steady shrinkage of deposits since July 1. The clearing house states that depositors will be paid in full, and the bank will ultimately reorganize.

Says Wyatt Was a Murderer.

Alton, Ill., Oct. 15.—When Willard L. Gilham read the alleged confession of Suicide J. R. Wyatt to the murder of his father, Senator D. B. Gilham, six years ago, he said that he was not surprised at the suicide, but that the confession was absolutely false and the conclusion to which it led, that wrong men had suffered for the crime, entirely mistaken.

FATAL TROLLEY ACCIDENT.

A Lehigh Traction Car Struck by a Train at Hazleton, Pa.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 15.—Three men were fatally and a score of others more or less seriously injured Wednesday night in a trolley accident at the Hazleton crossing of the Delaware, Susquehanna & Schuylkill railroad and the Lehigh traction line. ### IMPORTANT TO BANKERS.

New Precedent Established in Federal Court at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 15.—In the United States court Wednesday Judge Sage announced a decision which becomes a precedent of great interest to bankers and other business men. E. L. Harper of the Fidelity National bank borrowed $300,000 from the Chemical National bank of New York city March 2, 1887, to place in the bank. He made the loan on his own responsibility, and did not consult the bank trustees. When the bank failed the Chemical entered suit against Receiver Armstrong to recover the $300,000, with interest. Armstrong fought the suit because the trustees had not authorized the loan. The complaint alleged that they were doing business with an accredited officer of the bank, and made the loan in good faith, and had no means of knowing his misdoings. Judge Sage decreed for the complainants, and gave judgment for the amount, with interest.

Matabele War Is Ended.

Bulawayo, Matabeleland, Oct. 15.—(Delayed transmission)—Cecil Rhodes, Earl Grey, administrator for the British South Africa company, and other chief officials, have held a final indaba with the Matabele chiefs. Mr. Rhodes announced to them that, after yielding up their arms and those of their number who had been guilty of murdering whites, the Matabele must locate themselves in specified districts of the country, the principal chiefs to be held responsible and would receive monthly salaries from the British Chartered South Africa company. The chiefs all agreed to this proposition and it is believed that the whole Matabele trouble is now at an end.

GOV. ALTGELD IS IN EGYPT.

Farmers Turn Out in Large Numbers to Greet the Governor.

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 15.—The special train bearing Governor Altgeld and other democratic candidates on the state ticket passed Wednesday across Illinois from east to west and Wednesday night when darkness fell upon Egypt the caravan tented in Cairo. The day's run was from Marshall to Cairo, with a dozen stops and eight speeches. All along the route the democracy was out in force. The towns in the line of march had all prearranged meetings and probably a quarter of the entire population along the line were crowded around the speaker's stands.

Will Notify Watson.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Chairman Marion Butler, himself, will tell Thomas E. Watson, the people's party candidate for vice-president, just how and why the executive committee dumped the Georgia man. Last evening Senator Butler, who is the chairman of the national populist committee, and George F. Washburn, who is in charge of the Chicago headquarters, started for Georgia to explain to Mr. Watson the action of the populist national executive committee, which has officially advised all members of the party to refuse to vote for Watson and to concentrate their forces for the election of Bryan and Sewall.

Bishop Spalding Not the Man.

New York, Oct. 15.—According to Bishop Farley, it can be officially stated that the successor of Bishop Keane as rector of the Catholic University at Washington will be a priest and not a Bishop. The announcement upsets some of the calculations that Bishop Keane would have a successor in Bishop Spalding of Peoria.

Poisoned Children and Self.

Red Key, Ind., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Colonel Vernon Wednesday gave her two small children a dose of poison and then purchased 10 cents' worth of morphine and took it herself. The three are in a critical condition and only one of them will recover.

No Doubt of Their Identity.

Rock Rapids, Iowa, Oct. 15.—The news that the Sherburne bank robbers were none other than Lou and Hans Kelliham, well known boys in this city, fell like a thunderbolt. Their parents, who are reputable people, are prostrated by the announcement. The father, John Kelliham, and J. D. Wilson, his brother-in-law, have gone to Elie Earth City to see the prisoner there.

COL. GOLDIN CHOSEN BY THE TEMPLARS

Decide on the Name.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 15.—The "national democratic" party will be the way in which the gold democrats of this state will have their ticket on the official ballot. The matter was quietly fixed up at Madison and Secretary of State Casson has promptly certified the ticket to the county clerks all over the state.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 15.—There is some ill feeling among the leaders of the gold democracy of this state over the fact that Senator William F. Vilas refuses to make any speeches during the campaign. He was the leader of the bolt of the gold democrats, and it was largely due to his influence that a state convention was held and Wisconsin men took such a prominent part in the Indianapolis convention.

Shortage Will Be Enormous.

Juneau, Wis., Oct. 15.—The liabilities of W. T. Rambusch, the banker and financial agent, who disappeared Saturday and for whom a warrant has been issued, will amount to $200,000. An investigation of his business and accounts is now being made.

To Invade the Badger State.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 15.—The Palmer-Buckner party will make its trip east week through Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa in a special train, which leaves Chicago Tuesday at 1 o'clock.

VENEZUELAN REPORT DELAYED

No Decision Expected in Advance of the Return of Prof. Burr.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Secretary Malet, Prevost of the Venezuelan boundary commission has authorized the following: "The statement that the commission has come to a decision sustaining the claims of Venezuela in the boundary dispute between that country and Great Britain is without foundation. The commission is not yet in possession of all the facts necessary to form definite judgment, and will not be until the return of Prof. Burr from Europe, about the end of the month. He is to bring with him a most important historical information which must be carefully arrived at. Any decision can be reached are entirely premature."

PLAC FOR BISHOP KEANE.

New Roman Catholic Province to Be Created for Him.

New York, Oct. 15.—It is rumored here that a new Roman Catholic province is to be created in this state, and that the new archbishop will be Right Rev. John J. Keane, recently rector of the university in Washington. Incidentally it is reported that Archbishop Corrigan will receive the rank of cardinal at the November consistory.

The new province, as rumored, will comprise Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, and Elmira, the four dioceses to be called the Province of Buffalo. Elmira is not a diocese at present, but one is to be created.

Snubs the Silver Party.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 15.—The secretary of state, who is a candidate for re-election on the democratic ticket, has declined to file the silver party ticket, on the grounds that the ticket, under the caption "silver party ticket," with democratic and populist fusion electors and the republican state ticket, would be misleading to voters.

Iowa State Grange in Session.

Manchester, Iowa, Oct. 15.—The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Iowa State Grange convened in this city Tuesday. R. W. Tirrell, on behalf of the city, gave the visitors a cordial welcome. Ex-Governor Hoard of Wisconsin addressed the meeting.

BRAGG'S HOT SHOT BLISTERS BRYAN

Great Rally For Sound Money and Patriotism Held.

WISCONSIN'S FOREMOST DEMO-CRAT MAKES ADDRESS.

Denounced the Chicago Platform as Incendiary and Says Its Success Would Menace the Very Life of the Republic—Fallacy of Free Coinage is shown—To Vote For It Is To Be False to the Country—Dr. Whit-ing's Critting Remarks.

General Bragg's speech, showed that this was the case. They recognized a telling point before the people in the audience did and frequently applauded vigorously. Their declaration of principles was brought with them and after General Bragg ceased speaking, it was read by Dr. J. B.
Whiting.

The rally will be long remembered by those who attended, as an enthusiastic gathering of people of all classes and parties who came to hear the word from a man who had once fought and bled for his country and was now campaigning for the same reason—because his country had been assailed and its very existence threatened.

DR. WHITING'S OPENING REMARKS Eloquent Janesville Man's Appeal, and the Introduction of General Bragg.

K EEN and cutting was the first shaft
launched in the direction of the camp
of the repudiators and conspirators when
the curtain went up General Bragg was not the only old soldier present who had served his native land on the field of battle. Neither was he the only veteran present, who could render equally signal service from the rostrum. When the country's call for help was heard—almost even before the reverberation of the guns that sent solid shot at Sumpter, had died away—Dr. J. B. Whiting, as well as General Bragg, had responded.

These two comrades at arms, are firm friends, as well as brother veterans.
It was peculiarly fitting, therefore, that Dr. Whiting should preside over the meeting, at which General Bragg was the principal speaker.

As the curtain went up, Dr. Whiting stepped forward and when the applause had died away, he opened the meeting in a five minute speech that fired his hearers.

A Great Crisis at Hand.

After referring to the fact that the Railway Men's club had the place of honor on the stage and explaining that their declaration of principles would be read later, he said, in part:

"Thoughtful men believe we are in the midst of a crisis, the importance of which cannot be overestimated.
Not since the days of Douglass and Lincoln has such a condition of things confronted the American people. Are we ready to meet it?
Every citizen, every lover of his country and his honor is interested, no matter what his political belief may be."

Democrats, especially, were interested, he declared, as they are held partly responsible for a blatant candidate was going over the country desecrating the real democracy. After driving real democrats from the convention, he said, the Chicago conspirators had made a platform that upon which "no real democrat could stand without burning his feet." [Applause.] Long haired men belonging to the isms of all parties, were the rulers and were misleading the people and misrepresenting the great democratic party.

False Leader Denounced.

A cutting denunciation of the Chicago nominees followed, and the sharp sallies were liberally applauded.
The leader of this false democracy, the doctor said, fiddled—"not while Rome burned—but while the temple of liberty rooked!" [Applause.]

He compared Bryan to the veiled prophet who went around wearing a silver mask and when he had fooled the people, he tore the mask from his face. When the crisis came, he said,
"You would be dupes and victims, and you are," and then disappeared forever.

"It matters not what becomes of the false prophet," he insisted, "but what shall become of the people?
That is the question." [Applause.]
The misguided people, were following a man without reputation and without experience.

"I say, if he succeeds, and the relief that he predicts does come, I will sit at your feet, and do penance the rest of my life," he declared, "but if that relief does not come, then shall you who perpetrated the calamity on the American people, suffer the consequences!" [Applause.]

With feeling tribute to the general, Dr. Whiting closed, and when the applause died away, he introduced Mr. Bragg.

Dr. Whiting's remarks were peculiarly appropriate and forceful and his brief speech was warmly commended on all sides.

GENERAL BRAGG'S GREAT ADDRESS
Pleads For Law and Order, Public Economy, and the Right.

J ANESVILLE people have heard the voice of General Bragg before. They have heard him argue for the principles of the democratic party.
Last night, he also pleaded for the same organization, but the appeal was secondary to the call for volunteers to protect the country that he loves above everything else.

It was exceedingly embarrassing, he said, to address an audience, feeling that he should not be able to fulfill the expectation of people who heard so glowing a tribute as had just been paid.

"I will make no claims to oratory," he said in that deep guttural voice that came echoing back from the re-motest corner of the opera house, "but I speak in plain, clean English."

That was what the occasion demanded, he continued—plain English. When logic was founded on a false basis, he declared, true knowledge and understanding would come.

He Asked No Favors.

"I do not stand here as a politician," he declared. "I have nothing to seek and nothing to ask except the good of my country, my people and my party. The sands in my life's hour glass are nearly run out, and I had said, some years ago, that I hoped that no occasion should arise whereby I should be called upon to appear on the rostrum again."

Continuing he said that he had been selected by a convention of delegates, to speak, and under those circumstances he could not refuse to assume the trust confided to him. Thirty-six years ago, he had been called upon to do precisely the same thing. Then he was called a "crank," now he was called a "bolter"—because he would not bolt down a matter that he could not digest. [Applause.]

It was hard he continued, for a believer in party principles, not to follow a banner bearing the insignia of his party. Even worn out cavalry horses would jump the fence, he said when "boots and saddles" was sounded, to aid their younger brethren in the fray, forgetting that they were superannuated and had been turned out to spend the rest of their days in peace. So with the men—they hated to keep out of the fight. He then told of the Chicago convention which he attended.

Anarchy, Not Democracy.

"When I heard that declaration, in which the president—the only democratic president since the war—was denounced, and his action in protecting the country and putting down anarchy at Chicago, was derided, I said:

"That old snake, whose head and tail we had cut off after four years of fighting, has reared its head again!
I had hoped it never would!" [Great applause.]

"You sniff the battle afar," they said to me.

"Yes," replied, "and the odor is the same as then!" [Applause.]

If such conditions were met at first, a single hand could crush them, he remarked, and killing them then was a warning. A cancer needed a prompt application of the surgeon's knife, for delay met death. So with the doctrines aimed at the power of the government. Encouragement was all they decided to grow beyond control.

The perfidy of the makers of the Chicago platform was denounced, and in the course of the arraignment, General Bragg said that the action of the chairman was an example. This noted chairman had introduced a resolution in congress commending the president for his action in the Chicago riots. Then at the Chicago convention, he turned about and helped denounce the very action that he had applauded but a short time before.

Bryan and Altgeld Scorching.

"Then they declared that the courts should not be controlled by the law, and that the judicial ermine should be trailed in the dust behind the chariot of politics."

"There is another thing that is not democratic!" [Applause.] Referring to the candidate who stood on the Chicago platform, he said he was a man "who was raising, bugle in hand, on top of a bass drum" [continued applause that drowned the rest of the sentence] "saying that this was to be a great contest between the rich and the poor."

"Then I thought," he continued "of the bloody scenes of the French revolution. I saw the guillotine, cutting off the heads of the people who fought for liberty. I saw the rivulets of blood, and all the horrors of that awful time. That is what will follow, I said to myself, if the people of the United States endorse this platform!"
[Applause.]

"Who can control this inflamed mob, if it should be disappointed?" he demanded. "Think of a conspirator like Altgeld, saying to these men who only needed a leader, 'We have been sold out! What shall we do?' There would be but one thing left, in their minds, to do—to punish the men 'who had sold them out.' Then the sentiment would swell and swell until it resulted in the destruction of the government."

Great Men Not Rich Boys.

"All fear of consequences would be gone," he said, "only results would be thought of, and such results behoove no god!" [applause that prevented finishing the sentence.] "How long could this government last," he asked when the applause died out, "under such circumstances? The nation could dissolve like frost before the morning sun. Who are the poor who are thus appealed to? No country on the face of God's green earth holds out such inducements to the 'poor'!
From what class do great men come?
They are not the offspring of the rich, but men of humble parentage, who achieved their own greatness. [Applause.] The rich man of today is the poor man of tomorrow. Every office of honor and trust under this government, is open to the humblest citizen in this great country. The leader who tries to arraign class against class, neighbor against neighbor, and church against church, is a lawyer of thirteen years' standing with scarcely a brief. One who knows him well, said all the assessors could return against him for taxation was a $50 diamond stud, and a $10 horse, [Applause.] He has shot up like a rocket from the ranks of the poor to advocate the arraigning of the rich against the poor. All can aspire to the office he seeks and there are few who are not better qualified to fill it!" [Great Applause.]

The Duty of Democrats

"Democratic principles are not incendiary and no American, no democrat, who endorses incendiary principles, is true to his country. They are entitled only to the curses and execrations of every respectable American throughout the length and breadth of this great republic. [Applause.] But we are told that this leader is a democrat, and it is not right to bolt. Let me say that the doctrine of the democratic party is and always has been, 'principles, not men.' Upon this sentiment the party was founded, and has lived, to meet all corners, for more than one hundred years. [Applause.] Vampires have sneaked into our camp while we were asleep, and they have control. Shall we stand upon our honor, or trail in behind the mob? [Great applause.] Shall we follow the flag, or a rag labored 'democracy'? [Applause.] There is more to democracy than a mere label!" [Applause]

A patent medicine fakir sold a remedy that cured one man's consumption, and another man's corns, out of the same bottle, he said.

It was found to be but a nostrum.
"And," he continued with expressive emphasis, "that is just what you political charlatans will find you have gotten after you have taken a full dose!" [Great applause.] You brand it 16 to 1 [applause]. I have told you of the compounds that go to make it up!"
[Great applause.]

Populists, Etc. "Roasted."

Tillman, Teller, the governor of North Carolina, Penoyer, and the others were only democrats for the time being, he said, yet they and their delegations were active in the Chicago convention. No compound had more poison and mean things in it than the cure-all that these men made for the American people to take.

"Suppose Teller, the republican, had been nominated? What would you say?" he asked. The populist sentiment prevailed at Chicago he said. What political party had been jeered at as had the populist party, he asked.

"Why," he declared, "people have been known to shake hands with a prohibitionist in order to get a chance to spit on a populist!" [Applause.]

In continuing he denounced the fusion scheme as a plan to bring about a "revolution in office holding."

"This man what you call a democrat," he insisted, "returned to his populist friends, like a dog to his vomit, and was nominated by the populist at St. Louis!"

In Wisconsin populism had been wedded to democracy. Robert Schilling brought in democracy's blushing bride, while Ex-Governor Peck was groomsman.

"Do you call that a democratic ticket?" he demanded amid great applause.

Fusion, was the same in politics as in surgery. Strong blood strengthened weak blood, but became weak by so doing.

Aim of Indianapolis Convention.

The aim of the Indianapolis convention, was to preserve a strain of pure democratic blood untainted by populist fusion. He appealed to all democrats, for the welfare of the country, to put on their thinking caps, and to support the nation and the home.
Independent of the monetary question, he said, these things were enough.

General Bragg then took up the money question, saying that he would "shake up the 16 to 1 nostrum and see what there was in it."

He compared "Coin" Harvey to the man who wrote patent medicine advertisements, when he knew nothing of anatomy, and told of the author of "Coin's Financial School" getting the gold from the Chicago bank. Altgeld, Stewart and the others all wanted some due them paid in gold. Sixteen to one was a faith cure. All you had to do was to "believe and hope," and in thirty days "hope" was all the people would have. He showed the fallacy of the claim that the gold standard reduced values. Prices and the market were not made by law. Wheat had gone up, and oats had gone down.
The use of bicycles and trolley cars had cut down the demand for oats.
Supply and demand did it, but the charmer said it was the gold standard.

Not the "Dollar of Our Daddies."

The silver dollar was not "the dollar of our daddies." The dollar of our daddies was a foreign coin worn thinner than a shad scale. The 16 to 1 dollar would be a debased dollar. The government could not maintain parity as was shown by the depreciation of the "war money," when the amount of the issue was uncertain. There must be sufficient metal in gold and silver coins to maintain their commercial value, else the "cheap" one must depreciate. Quality counted, not quantity. Under the present system the government bought the bullion and made and issued the dollars.
Therefore the honor of the government was behind it, and dollars were only

WHO SUFFERS MOST?

Thousands of dodgers were scattered about the streets last evening urging workingmen to vote for Bryan because Henry C. Payne would vote for McKinley. In other words, because Mr. Payne favored paying workingmen in 100-cent dollars the workingmen themselves were to demand dollars worth 53 cents! It was a difference of 5 per cent, as we remember it, that made all the trouble in Milwaukee last winter. What a time there would have been with a reduction of 49 per cent. on the "buck"! The strike would have been on yet, and universal public sympathy would have made the strikers strong. Considering how hard they would fight again, such a reduction if proposed by their employers it seems rather ridiculous to advise them to demand the reduction themselves.

There was a solid, and force and earnestness about the procession of railroad men last night that overbalanced many processions ten times as long and twenty times as noisy. There were no loose-mouthed speakers in line—all were level headed men who know they cannot prosper unless the country prospers. They know, too, that $24 a week paid in 100-cent dollars buys more than $24 a week paid in 53-cent dollars.

The unwillingness of democrats to spend good money in campaigning for bad is said to cramp the Bryan managers. But wait until the mine owners finish buying up the west and turn to Wisconsin and Illinois! The financial stringency in these parts will be relieved at once.

"Populism, so far as I have been able to examine it," said Bourke Cockran, "is a sonorous declamation based upon a fundamental misconception of facts." The noise is equal to the fallacy, but the silent power of the ballot will shut off its wind.

The implication of a certain young Nebraskan that George Washington was "the Bryan of his day" should be appreciated. It was the highest tribute the eloquent young gentleman could command.

Coin's book should be revised to show why cotton and wheat go up at the same time silver goes down. The arguments of the silverites have had some awful jolts in the last few weeks.

Bryan will draw nearly as large crowds wherever he goes in Wisconsin as Buffalo Bill did—and will make just about as many presidential votes.

Bryan has put himself to more trouble not to be elected than any man who ever before ran for president.

Nobody red to put their fingers in General Bragg's buzz.

CALLING FOR A DOCTOR.

How the Showman Ended the Nuisance in One Town.

"Your story about calling for a doctor in the circus," said a retired showman, "reminds me of the way we broke up a nuisance in a good sized Pennsylvania town. I was on the road with a farce comedy company and we put in two weeks at the town in question, there being a big military encampment there and a county fair to boot. We drew good houses all through the engagement, and were booked for an early return. I don't think we had been there more than one night before the doctor nuisance began. There would come a hurried messenger from the box office to the stage manager with a request that he ask if Dr. Bolus, or whatever his name happened to be, was in the house, and if he was to send him to the box office at once. Of course, the stage manager couldn't very well refuse, and general attention was directed to the medical man, much to his satisfaction. We soon found out that the doctors who were so much in demand were very small medical fry, and there wasn't a doubt that they had themselves called for in order to secure the consequent notoriety. Well, we stood it for a few nights, and then an idea occurred to me. I took a walk up the main street until I came to a certain sign hanging over a stairway. I went up to the office indicated and had a brief conversation with its inmate, ending it by handing him reserved seat tickets.

That evening, immediately after the first act and before any messenger from the box office had a chance to arrive, I stepped out in front of the curtain and held up my hand. Then in my gravest tones I asked:

"Is Dr. Chizzoid in the house?" "Immediately a very tall colored man, with a bushy white head and huge silver mounted spectacles, arose in the audience and said:

"Heah I is, sah." "The audience tittered, but I kept my gravity.

"You are wanted at the box office at once, doctor, in a case which requires your immediate professional attention."

"As the aged darkey ducked to me and hobbled from the room the audience broke into a wild roar.

"Perhaps you will understand the cause of their merriment when I add that the old man was a corn doctor and probably the best known eccentric character in town.

"Well, there were no more doctors called for from that stage during our engagement."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Archbishop's Wit.

The stories that are told of Archbishop Ryan's wit would fill a small volume. A well-known priest called upon him one day to ask for a vacation on the ground that his health required it. As he was noted for his frequent absences from his parish, the prelate could not let slip the opportunity. He granted the leave of absence promptly, with a recommendation: "The physicians say that you need a change of air, father?" "They do, your grace." "How would it do, then, to try the air of your parish for a month or two as a change?" He remonstrated once with a priest whose silk hat had seen its best days before the war. "I would not give up that hat for twenty new ones," said the priest. "It belonged to my father, who fell in the rising of '48." "And evidently fell on the hat," said the archbishop.—Household Words.

Cuba Soon to Be Free.

Cadiz, Oct. 15.—If Spain has not put down the insurrection in Cuba by the first of next March it is said to be the intention of the government to give up the struggle and let the island go. This view of the situation outlines clearly the policy of the Spanish government and tends to show that it is massing its troops in Cuba in the determination of making one desperate effort to crush completely the Cuban forces.

coined in such sums as the government could keep at a value of one hundred cents on the dollar, measured by gold. The government made the coinage profit. Under a free coinage law, this profit would go to the mine owners. The bullion was his, and so was the dollar. The government had no responsibility in the matter. The mine owner would get 47 cents profit on each dollar and the people must pay it. I would be individual money not government money.

"How would you get any of it?" he asked.

The mine owners would lend it to you at par—when it was worth but fifty-three cents, demanded gilt edged security and make the debt payable in gold he declared and great applause followed.

Wisconsin For McKinley.

English stockholders owned the biggest silver mines in the world, he said. Workingmen had nothing to sell except their labor and brains, for which they would get money coined on individual responsibility in unlimited sums. And he would only get his $2 a day the same as now. Prices would go up as the value of the money went down. Wages would be the last to advance. Credit was a larger factor in trade than money.

"Do not break down business, and discourage capital," he said in closing. The preservation of the existing gold standard means that all money shall be worth 100 cents on the dollar, be it made of gold, silver, paper, nickel, copper or lead. The great dangers that I saw in the beginning of the campaign are passing away, so far as our own state is concerned. At one time the state threatened to give 60,000 majority to Bryan; now it is certain that instead of that, Wisconsin will give 60,000 majority for Mr. Bryan's principal opponent, Major McKinley.

A tremendous outburst of applause that lasted several minutes followed. When it ceased, General Bragg said:

"But remember, my republican friends, that that majority will not be given on the tariff issue. After this question is settled, and we all get back into our accustomed places, I pray that God will give me strength to come and discuss the tariff question with you!" [Applause.]

At the close of Gen. Bragg's speech, Dr. Whiting read the principles of the Railroad Men's Sound Money club, which were enthusiastically received.

GAME LAW DECISION PLEASES LOCAL SHOOTERS.

The Old Law Rather Loosely Framed in This Respect and Advantage Was Taken of This Fact—The Deer Hunters are Despondent However.

The decision that the game law of 1895 is invalid and the law of 1893 is still in force brings joy to some Janesville hunters and gloom to others. The law of 1893 was looser as far as duck shooting was concerned and sculling was a common way of getting big bags of canvas-backs. There has been comparatively little sculling on Lake Koshkonong since the 1895 law passed but several Janesville men have been getting sneak boats ready and will spend the next two weeks on the water.

Deer hunters, however, get no comfort this year. Quite a number had expected to go to the woods November 1, this being the opening of the season under the 1895 law. The 1893 law which has supplanted it provides that it shall be unlawful to kill deer between November 1, and the succeeding first day of October of each year, making October the open season. Fourteen days of good hunting have thus been lost.

It is estimated that over 5,000 sportsmen of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois were preparing to hunt deer in Northern Wisconsin this fall, who will now be unable to carry out their plans.

Under the 1893 law the seasons for various kinds of game are as follows: Deer, October 1 to November 1; brant and goose, September 1 to May 1; fish, October 1 to May 1; partridge, grouse and prairie chicken, September 1 to December 1; marten and otter, November 1 to May 1; woodcock, snipe, plover, September 1 to December 1; rabbits, October 1 to November 1; wood duck mallard and teal, September 1 to December 1; other kinds of duck, September 1 to May 1. The trout season ends September 1 and bass and pike season January 1.

THIS CITY KNOWN FOR ITS BARGAINS

LOCAL STORES HAVE GROWN STRONGER.

The Trade Circle of the City Has Grown in Consequence of the Sharp Competition Between Local Merchants—Janesville People Should Cooperate.

In spite of the hard times, there has been a branching out among Janesville stores in the last three years that must be advantageous to buyers. The competition is sharper and upon a larger scale than it ever has been before. It has brought a great deal of trade to the city. It has led hundreds of people to buy in Janesville who would otherwise have bought elsewhere. It has led competitors to strive to outstrip each other in improving the quality of their goods. It has made it more difficult than ever to dispose of inferior goods or to make prices higher than they ought to be.

There is no doubt but the profits upon sales in some lines of business have been reduced by the keenness of the competition that exists, but a reduction of profits with an increase of sales may be perfectly satisfactory to the seller, and may enlarge his returns. The ultimate effect has been to make Janesville known as a great trading point, and to add thousands of dollars to the receipts of local merchants. People in surrounding towns recognize the fact that Janesville offers ample variety at prices considerably below the Chicago average. Every dollar they spend here makes the opening of greater inducements possible. Every dollar of Janesville money sent away does its part to impair that possibility. Self interest even more than local pride should prompt the backing of Janesville merchants by Janesville people, that the advances made in the last few years shall be surpassed in the years of protection and prosperity to be inaugurated next month.

SURPRISE FOR GOLDEN WEDDING

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Cutts Mark the Anniversary

A number of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Cutts surprised them in honor of their golden wedding yesterday, and a very pleasant time was the result. But their friends would not let the occasion pass, so yesterday they descended upon the Cutts home, laden with heavy baskets. About thirty sat down to the table.

At the close of the brief wedding ceremony the company was served with an elaborate banquet and at 7:20 Mr. and Mrs. Lamb left for an extended trip in the west from which they will return to their home in Emerald Grove in the course of a month.

Caterer George Shurtleff served the menu in a faultless manner, and the wedding was a particularly happy one in all respects.

SACKS AND COWNS.

Coats of Velvet, Silk, Cloth and Fur—Button Trimmings.

The straight sack in all its varieties seems to be one of the most certain and prominent features of winter fashions. It is made of silk and satin for wear in mild weather, and for cold days fur, velvet and cloaking materials are pressed into the service. The sack may be quite plain or mounted in plaits upon a yoke. Changeable silk is much liked in Paris for the latter style, the yoke being embroidered with bands or covered with lace and the silk body of the garment being accented plaited. The yoke is not necessarily of the same material, however. It may be of velvet or of embroidery, lace or passementerie over a lining of a different color. Trimming to match the yoke is placed upon the sleeves. The charm of the sack depends entirely upon its finish, color and trimming, as it is practically shapeless.

Cloth and velvet, velvet and cloth—the changes are rung upon that combination until one would fancy there were but those two materials in the world. Fashion has elected them prime favorites, and they will be worn all winter, not only composing general utility gowns, but for elegant and ceremonious costumes. They will be adorned with expensive buttons, the button fever being still as high as ever and promising to rage indefinitely. The buttons will be placed on straps, sleeves and plaits of both gowns and jackets.

Sacks of heavy goods mounted on a yoke will be laid in large plaits, flat or hollow. The wattle effect will also be employed. The fur used as trimming will be in the form of a stole, large collar, small pelerine or even an entire yoke, or sometimes only in narrow bands bordering the entire garment or framing the plaits.

The sketch shows a costume of beige cloth, having a skirt adorned around the foot by a series of wide tucks. The bodice opens fully in front and in a V at the back over a close vest of white cloth embroidered with gold. This vest has a short basque and fastens with small buttons. The bodice fronts have revers of violine velvet and are adorned by steel buttons. The cloth sleeves are plain. There is a rolling collar of white cloth above a straight one of velvet. The hat of beige felt is trimmed with violine velvet, steel buckles and black plumes.

VARIOUS NOTES.

English Capes Still in Favor—Mixed Cheviots With Bright Threads.

"Button, button, who has the button?" Everybody has it this season, or rather has them, for their name is legion, and the popularity that they enjoyed last winter seems to have increased instead of waned. Big buttons and small, elaborate buttons and plain are worn singly and in groups or sets. They range all the way from the size of a stud to that of a large butter plate, and their variations in price and elegance are equally great. Copies of antique buttons are largely worn, and jeweled and miniature effects give brilliancy to many winter costumes. Sometimes their use is merely ornamental; sometimes they really serve as a fastening. They appear on corselets, sleeves, cuffs, collars and shoulder knots, indeed in every possible place. Clusters of small gold, steel, horn or pearl buttons are seen on tailor made gowns and outside garments, decorating sleeves, straps and seams.

English capes, which still remain fashionable, are adorned with gold buttons, and buttons even appear on hats and bonnets.

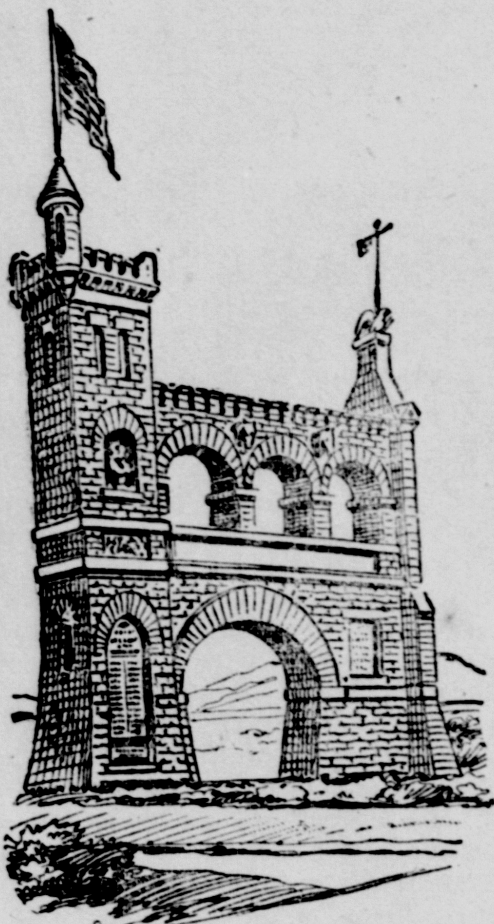

Mixed cheviots are having great success. These and similar materials in the English style have threads of brilliant color so interwoven that the whole effect is delightfully soft and pleasing. Lettuce green, bright pink, French blue, amethyst, ruby, ivory and black are combined with the utmost hardihood, and the result is an ample justification of the astonishing mixtures.

A picture is given of an unusually pretty wedding gown of white satin. The skirt has a round train, and the seam at each side of the tablier is outlined by two narrow ruffles of cream mousseline de soie. The bodice has but one piece at the back, while in front there is a wide corselet, starting from the under arm seams. The short bolero front is trimmed with three narrow mousseline ruffles, and the straight collar is finished at the top with a mousseline ruche. The close sleeve has a small puff, ending in three ruffles of mousseline. A garland of orange blossoms passes in front of the collar, and a trail of the same flower follows the left side of the bolero. Clusters of orange flowers are placed at the wrist.

In Memory of War Correspondents.

The men who told the story of our civil war with pen and pencil are to have their memory honored by a monument located in the midst of the scenes of their labor. At Gapland, Md., will soon be dedicated the war correspondents' memorial, a monument which has been erected by private subscription, the funds coming largely from newspaper men themselves. The structure is located on South mountain. It is a monument 40 feet square supporting a tower 50 feet in height.

Originated the Pampas Plume Emblem.

To the inventive mind of a shrewd Californian woman is due the credit for originating the pampas plume emblem which Mr. Hanna has so strongly indorsed for use by the Republicans in this campaign. She is Mrs. H. W. R. Strong, the owner of a walnut ranch near Los Angeles. Mrs. Strong is a business woman of much ability. She is the president of a local association of

The old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man who has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Not one in a thousand does do it. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, they will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of giving strength to the tissues, it will force upon them unwholesome and innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh and the more susceptible he is to disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease, and replaces impurities with rich, red blood.
